Subject: Postwar history of Club 100

To:

Late it is. The job of writing the postwar history of Club 100 doings was tossed to me only last night, at 30th Anniversary Reunion planning committee meeting. The history, in summary or whatever its ultimate form, will be published in the anniversary brochure. Bob Taira says he will call a meeting shortly of those who, because of their association with the club, will best be in position to contribute materials for inclusion in the writing. But, rather than wait for this meeting to get started, I have quickly prepared a starter list of items to be considered so we can get to work right away; project completion date April 30th.

Please review the items; add others. Then make notes of things/people/events connected with the items. Provide or cite references wherever possible. If you have pictures, better yet; or if you know of anyone who might be willing to contribute his talents to illustrating a thing like this, that would be outstanding. Anecdotes would be most helpful and welcome. Names are fundamental - members who have made contributions to the club/community/city/state/nation, or whose accomplishments are worthy of note - and others also, those who are not in the VIP category but whose distinction is that they have contributed to the progress of the Club 100. And those outside the club who have helped us should be included; they are priceless. Nothing is irrelevant; everything needs to be considered.

Will you please help? Dig into your memories, dig into your files. To attempt a review of any 27-year period is tough; to attempt it in the short time allotted to us seems improbable. But we shall give it a try. Then, when the memorabilia has been written, I look forward to the final section of the writings which will cast an eye to the future of the club. Together, we may yet be able to produce a take-off document for future planning. I shall be seeing you. MAHALO!
